

CHEIRON: THE INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF EQUINE AND EQUESTRIAN HISTORY

CALL FOR PAPERS

Ever since their domestication millenia ago – and probably even before it – horses have played an important role in human society.

The relations between the two species were occasionally antagonistic, often exploitative, but also beneficial for both parties. Documenting and studying the history of their relations, however, is a rather new practice – or so it would seem.

The first two issues of Cheiron will be dedicated to a critical examination of equine and equestrian history. We invite submissions from a variety of disciplinary perspectives, including, but not limited to, history, archaeology, anthropology and interspecies communication, targeting all chronological periods from prehistory to contemporary history. Among others, we invite submissions about the contributions made by national schools and scholars to equine and equestrian studies.
